

SEYMOUR TO AID BELGIAN PEOPLE

Movement Inaugurated to Load Car with Flour and Meal to Relieve Famine Conditions.

CONTRIBUTIONS ARE SOLICITED

Supplies will be Purchased Here and Shipped to New York During Thanksgiving Week.

Seymour and this community will be given an opportunity to help the innocent non-combatants of Belgium, thousands of whom are in utter destitution. A movement has been inaugurated to send a carload and possibly two carloads of flour and meal to that country, the shipment to leave this city during Thanksgiving week. What assistance is given in this community will be a part of the general plan which has been suggested by the Northwestern Miller, of Minneapolis, Minn., which proposed to send at least one ship load of flour and meal to that country. The shipment will be in the personal charge of William C. Edgar, editor of the Northwestern Miller. All mills in this country are asked to donate flour for the cause.

The Blish Milling Company received a notice of the appeal today and will make a generous donation of flour. T. S. Blish, a member of the firm, announced today that the company was expecting to send flour to that country and would co-operate with the plan that has been suggested. He stated that his company will give at least one hundred barrels of flour.

While the plan is being pushed by the Northwestern Miller people of all communities are urged to assist. Arrangements have already been made to pay for the transportation of the cargo so the contributors will be relieved of this expense. All money that is contributed will be used for the purchase of foodstuffs.

The appeal states that "our views concerning the responsibility for this war may vary, we may have different opinions as to the merits of the causes of the contending nations and our sympathies may be on opposite sides, but on one thing all will absolutely agree: that is the common duty of humanity to help these poor people. This work aids Germany, as well as the Allies. All are equally interested, whatever may be the outcome of the war in the preservation of the worthy non-combatants of Belgium who have had nothing to do with either bringing about the war or prosecuting it, and yet, by reason of their unfortunate location, are the chief sufferers on account of it."

Those in charge of the shipment propose to send not less than 45,000 barrels of flour and meal and have the assistance of the ambassadors of all countries in the undertaking. The millers throughout the country have been asked to contribute liberally and it is known that they will make up a large part of the cargo.

What is needed in Belgium is not money but food, according to the dispatch received by the American consul there. The supplies must be purchased here and sent to the sufferers. It is hoped that 90,000 barrels of flour and meal can be sent to the destitute people there and in order to do this the people of the country must aid in the work. The flour will be packed in strong cotton sacks of one quarter barrel each. Any wholesome flour will do. One sack of this size will maintain one person for three months. The supplies are being carefully distributed by the Belgian government so as to avoid any waste.

It is believed that there are many people in Seymour and this community who are desirous of assisting in relieving the distressing situation in the foreign country, and it has been proposed that all such persons contribute any amount they may desire for the purchase of flour or meal. Donations will be received at the Republican Office and the names of the contributors, if desired, will be published from day to day. Some who are interested in the relief plans are of the opinion that as much as one car may be contributed by the people of this locality. It is pointed out that a small contribution from a large percentage of citizens will aggregate a large sum and will be a true act of charity.

Persons who desire to contribute peas or beans may also send such supplies in the same car. As the vessel will not be arranged to handle meat or vegetables the supplies must be of the character that will not spoil in transit. The shipment that is sent from this city will be labeled as a Seymour contribution and this city and community will be given the credit for whatever donations are made.

REVISED SALARY SCHEDULE FOR RURAL MAIL CARRIERS

Compensation Based on Length of Routes, Time Required to Serve Them and Weight of Mail.

Postmaster Swope has received notice from the postoffice department at Washington that beginning November 1, a new salary schedule for rural mail carriers became effective. Eight of the rural mail carriers out of this city will be benefited by the new scale and the total increase under the new order means an advance of $216 for the eight carriers.

Hereafter the compensation of rural carriers will be based on the length of routes, the time required to serve them in accordance with the authorized official schedules and the number of pieces and weight of mail carried.

During the last month a count of all mail made by each rural mail carrier.

HEAVY GRIND OF CASES IN COURT

Several Important Causes Will Come to Trial Before Adjournment of October Term.

GRAND JURY FINISHES WORK

Nineteen Indictments Returned After Investigation of Various Alleged Law Violations.

The Jackson county grand jury completed its work Monday afternoon and submitted its report to the court after which, there being no further work for them, the jurors were dismissed by Judge Swails.

The report includes nineteen indictments for various offenses. Following the law, the defendants will be served with warrants, and either arrested or allowed to give bond for their appearance before the indictments are made public.

The report also included their investigation of the county jail and the county poor asylum, a copy of which is furnished to the board of county commissioners for their consideration.

The greater part of Tuesday in the circuit court was given over to the Hutchinson divorce case. A large number of witnesses testified for both the plaintiff and defendant, after which Judge Swails took the case under advisement and will render a decision within a few days.

Testimony was also heard in the case of the state, ex rel Lula Bridge-water, vs. Charles Gerard, on a statutory offense, and after arguments by Prosecutor Underwood for the state, and J. A. Cox for the defendant, the case was given to the jury.

In the case of George M. Boicourt vs. Wm. McCord et al., for foreclosure of mortgage, finding was returned for the plaintiff and judgment in the sum of $420.25 awarded.

The divorce case of Cary B. Trowbridge vs. Ira O. Trowbridge was dismissed and the costs assessed to the defendant.

New cases filed were that of Albert Robins vs. Mary M. Robins, for divorce, and of Edward Collman, et al. vs. Robert Crawford for damages. The plaintiff in this case alleges that the defendant, who owns a farm adjacent to his, and between which there is no fence, has allowed his cattle and hogs to roam at large over the two farms, refusing to confine them, and that they have damaged his crops to the extent of $400, for which he asks judgment.

The case of the State vs. Henry Paris, on a charge of grand larceny, was dismissed on motion of Deputy Prosecutor Wesner.

The closing two weeks of court promise to be very busy as several important cases remain to be heard, and Judge Swails is anxious to clean up the docket and have nothing left over. The grand jurors, glad to be relieved of their official duties, returned to their homes at once, but the petit jurors will have to hold themselves subject to call until the close of court next week.

JUDGE LEWIS WON GUESSING CONTEST

Fourth District Chairman Nearest to Official Count of Vote on United States Senator.

L. W. HENLEY CONDUCTS MATCH

Twenty-five Prominent Republicans Will Banquet on Fee That Accompanied Each Guess.

In winning the guessing contest which was conducted by L. W. Henley, secretary of the Republican state committee, on the result of the election for United States senator, Judge John M. Lewis, of this city, Republican chairman of the Fourth district, has proven that he was thoroughly familiar with the political situation in Indiana. Political leaders conceded that it was difficult to analyze the vote in advance but Judge Lewis' guess was very close to the official count. His guess on United States senator vote was as follows:

Hugh Miller, Rep., 225,000; Albert J. Beveridge, Prog., 110,000; B. F. Shively, Dem., 265,000.

The total vote of the three candidates for United States senator in Indiana was as follows: Miller, 222,799; Beveridge, 108,754; Shively, 273,156.

A few weeks ago Mr. Henley proposed the guessing match. Twenty-five prominent Republicans throughout the state were asked to make a guess on the vote for senator, seal the guess in an envelope and send it to Mr. Henley with a check for $10. The guesses were to be opened and read by a committee after the election, and the winner announced. But the winner was not to make money out of the proposition, for all the money was to be spent on a dinner for the twenty-five men, as a sort of celebration and a compliment to the winner for his guessing ability.

The date for this dinner has not yet been set, but it will be known as a "political prophet's pow-wow," and it will be held at the Hotel Severin, Indianapolis, probably some time next week. Charles A. Bookwalter, of Indianapolis, will be toastmaster. He will read all the guesses to the party, and it is said the reading will disclose just how much or how little the judgment of the various guessers may be depended on to indicate the real situation in political campaigns.

Menu cards will be prepared, on the front page of which will be a picture of Judge Lewis, the winner of the contest. It is said a number of other Republicans who did not enter the contest are sending in their $10 checks and asking that places be reserved for them at the dinner.

J. T. Moorman, of Winchester, made the second best guess. He guessed Miller, 223,000; Beveridge, 100,000; Shively, 263,000.

R. H. McClelland won the booby prize for making the wildest guess. He gave Miller, 176,000; Beveridge, 152,655; Shively, 214,824. He missed the result by a total, on the three candidates, of 148,420.

There was a wide variety of guesses on the Beveridge vote. W. H. Freeman, of Indianapolis, guessed that Beveridge would receive 75,000 votes. Matthew Kelly, Washington, guessed 146,000; Ed Ballard, Richmond, placed the Beveridge vote at 139,126, and Robert H. Bryson of Indianapolis, placed it at 128,363.

GERMANS MAKE PROGRESS IN THE REGION OF YPRES

Fighting in the West Continues Without Any Decisive Results, Says Official Report.

By United Press.
Berlin, November 11. (By Wire- less)—Fighting in the west continues without decisive results, a statement from the war office declared today. The situation in the Argonne remains favorable and progress is being made near Ypres.

In the east nothing has occurred to indicate that danger of a general Russian invasion is imminent. Turkish troops along the Caucasian front have met with signal success.

Great significance is attached to the last official report from the west which declares "good advances" have been made in the region of the Argonne. This in the first time this expression has been used concerning the fighting in that district.

SIMMS WILL REPRESENT
U. S. ON INSPECTION TOUR

United Press Correspondent Designated by French Government to Inspect Battle Front.

By United Press.
Paris, November 11.—In the first group of foreign correspondents officially nominated by the French Government to visit the battle fields along the Anglo-French-German frontier, William Philip Simms, manager of the Paris Bureau of the United Press Associations, was designated to represent the American newspaper correspondents.

The war office decided to permit only one correspondent of each of the seven important neutral countries to participate in the trip. The official tour will be made at the same time by the foreign military attaches as military observers. In accordance with this ruling Simms was chosen from among American correspondents to make the trip.

By United Press.
Paris, November 11.—Fighting on the battle line near Nieuport to the Lys continues with the greatest intensity but with varied fortunes for the Allies and Germans.

Following the statement of Captain Edlin that he suspected the ship was set on fire by German spies, no one was allowed to go on board or leave the vessel until they had passed a rigid investigation.

Military Observers Declare Kaiser is Trying to Force Troops to Dunkirk or Calais.

FIGHTING IS VERY VIOLENT

Germany Said to be Withdrawing Many of Her Troops From the Western Battle Front.

Bulletin.

By United Press.
Petrograd, Nov. 11.—The investing of the Cracow may be the next decisive step in the eastern campaign. Russian troops have been officially reported only twenty miles from Cracow. The main advance upon the fortress is now proceeding along the railroad from Ivangrod. The advance upon Cracow may be expected to be rapid. Speedy transportation of troops as well as guns, munitions and supplies will be possible. A branch line leads direct to Cracow.

London, November 11.—It is becoming more and more evident to military observers that Germany is now making a desperate effort in Belgium to carry out her determination to penetrate the battle line of the Allies with a frontal attack and reach either Dunkirk or Calais, on the English channel.

This attack seems to be taking place south of Dixmude. What is described in an official bulletin as "very violent fighting" in the north continued today. The foggy weather of the last few days apparently has cleared and the Germans are pushing the attack.

Dispatches from Belgium and Holland continue to insist that the Germans are withdrawing many of their troops from the western battle front, but the official communications from the headquarters of the Allies do not indicate any diminution in the force of the German attack.

One of these reports of a withdrawal of German troops came from the Morning Post's correspondent in north Belgium, who says that he learns from Berlin that eighty trainloads of German cavalry, drawn from France and Belgium, have left Berlin for Posen in the last three days.

COLLEGE SOCIETY IS DUE FOR AN INQUIRY

A C-Ed Novitiate nler Care of Physician.

Cincinnati, Nov. 11.—Miss Ethel Sweeney, daughter of a wealthy oil operator and co-ed in Marietta college, is under a physician's care because of a severe beating and other indignities heaped upon her by her sister co-eds during her initiation into a society of the college a few days ago. The young woman alleges that she was told to go to a temperance meeting and shout the word "booze" in the speaker's face. When she refused she was given severe treatment. Later she was taken to the attic of a well-known Marietta home, stripped of part of her clothing and beaten until the blood oozed from the cuts made by the lash. To finish the work iodine was smeared over her face and the skin was burned off.

Golden Period of Prosperity Predicted For America.

Philadelphia, Nov. 11.—Prosperity such as has never been experienced by any people in any country at any time was predicted at a gathering of credit men of this city. The optimism of the speakers was tempered with conservatism, and it was their opinion that while golden opportunities awaited the commerce of the United States to the south and across seas, it would be a mistake to rush to South America headlong after business that now is and will be seeking our markets.

With the important European nations at war eliminated from the world's markets and the world looking to us, as each land shall have adjusted itself to a new condition of affairs, the United States is facing an opportunity unparalleled in history, was the general feeling.

REPUBLICANS TO GIVE OLD-TIME LOVE FEAST

Chairman Hays Issues Call for Meeting of State Committeemen at Indianapolis.

Will H. Hays, Republican state chairman, has issued a call for a meeting of the officers and members of the state committee and the state executive committee, at the state headquarters, Hotel Severin, next Saturday afternoon. The members will be the guests of Chairman Hays at luncheon at noon and the business meeting will follow.

It is the purpose to discuss and outline plans for the campaign of 1916. Already it has been decided to keep permanent state headquarters open in room 319, Hotel Severin, with L. W. Henley, secretary of the state committee, in charge. Organization and publicity work will be carried on from this headquarters so as to keep the organization in good shape for the opening of the campaign in 1916.

Another subject that will be discussed will be plans for an old-fashioned Republican love feast, to be held in Indianapolis during holiday week. In former years these love feasts were regular affairs, following each general election, and they always brought hundreds of Republicans together from all over the state. Following the elections of 1910 and 1912 no love feasts were held. Reports from over the state, however, show that the love feast next month will be a big affair, and extensive plans are in contemplation for it.

NEW MEMBERS EXPECTED TO JOIN CHORAL SOCIETY

Second Rehearsal will be Held Tonight to Continue Training for the Winter's Work.

The Union Choral Society will hold its second rehearsal this evening at the Conservatory of Music. A business meeting will be held at 7:30, and the rehearsal will commence at 8:00 o'clock sharp.

About fifty enrolled at the first meeting last week, and many more are expected tonight. All singers, whether young or old, are cordially invited to join and receive the benefit of the training at the hands of Franklin Taylor, the director. It is hoped by the officers of the society to make the society representative of the entire city, and the choir singers of practically every church in the city are enrolled as members. They recognize the fact that such a chorus, when efficiently drilled and rehearsed, would be quite an addition to the musical circles of the city and are working hard for its success.

Mrs. J. F. Shiel, the president of the society, urges that all who desire to help by joining the chorus, to be present promptly at 7:30 o'clock tonight.

HUMOR, PATHOS IN NEW STORIES FROM EUROPE'S BATTLEFIELDS

Soldiers Become Fatalists. "Angels Have No Nation," Says Wounded German.

CORRESPONDENTS at the front or marooned in obscure places while the great European conflict rages manage daily to get through some grimly humorous or tragic side lights of the war. Here are some of the best that have come over the cables or by mail:

Vivid is the description of life on the battlefield as given in a letter from a French soldier printed in the Figaro. Shrapnel searching in deadly gusts over infantry which can do nothing but wait, card games in the trenches, heroic cook details who every day march from their shelters back to the kitchens under fire all the time—these are incidents related by the "piou-piou." He writes:

"Spades are trumps—the king of hearts I cut.

"Do not think that I am writing this on the marble topped table of a cafe while a quiet game of cards is going on. No; the Germans are two kilometers away from us, and my comrades, their loaded pieces beside them, are playing a few hands of manille (a popular French card game) in the trenches while waiting.

"They have been waiting for six days.

Courage Is Not Enough.

"It is not sufficient for soldiers to be courageous. They must also have patience—lots of patience. For war today is far different from what little boys who maneuver their lead soldiers on the floor imagine it.

"Since the commencement of the campaign our regiment has taken part in nine engagements, of which three were big battles, and has been mentioned in the orders of the day. And with all that there are whole companies the men of which have not fired a shot—not a single shot. And these companies did not have the easiest work, either. To them fell the most thankless, most perilous, most grueling mission of all—that of supporting artillery. This is how we carried it out:

"The soldiers are there, behind a crest. Beside them fifty yards away are the following guns. The enemy is far away, but his cavalry is mobile. A platoon of uhlans, well led, might attempt to carry off the guns. It is necessary to have infantry supports. At present the German guns are replying. They do not know where our battery is, but they are searching for it. Their shells come nearer and nearer. Our soldiers do not see the enemy. They lie there with their useless rifles beside them. They look at—what? The shells, which are bursting very near now. A terrific crash—a wave of earth covers a whole section. The men get up and count themselves. No; this time nothing. But the next? Who knows?

No Foe Near, but Must Stay.

"Are we going away? Who will protect the battery? No; we must stay.

"The aviators have signaled that there are no parties of the enemy in the vicinity, but nevertheless one never knows. It is necessary to stay.

"And now the German shells are bursting over us as we crouch, offering as small a surface as possible.

"A shell bursts on the right. The sergeant's canteen is smashed by a flying bit. He has escaped. Shell to the left—two wounded! Right in the center this time—one hurt, by a miracle. Five are wounded now, and we patch them up with first aid bandages. The rest of us look at each other. Whose turn next? Another man down! Will they move us now? No, the battery is still there. At last it limbers up to move to a safer spot, and we fall in and march off to shelter, without haste, the last ones lingering to help the wounded.

"In the trenches we are less exposed. You cannot imagine how many trenches we have dug since we have been on the firing line. Trenches of all sorts, from little molehills to deep ditches that cover us entirely. Talk about the German trenches—ours are as good, I think. And we have furnished them with every convenience possible.

"Over our heads a furious artillery duel is raging. Often—too often—we feel the bill. Yesterday two captives were wounded, today the colonel and a general.

"Oh, well, we don't think about it any more. When we hear the whistle of an approaching shell it does not affect us.

"I had night after night heard the thunder of guns, but could not understand how the heavy artillery could do efficient work in the darkness, but shortly after dusk I found an explanation of the mystery. Two miles away, across the plain, a searchlight blazed out for thirty seconds and then disappeared. An instant later came the flash of a big German gun. I watched the point on which the searchlight had been turned and then saw the flash of a bursting shell. Five minutes later the searchlight flashed from a new position. This maneuver was repeated time and again all along the horizon, searchlights flashing in every direction and the thunder of guns rolling down to Champagne."

"You Are an Angel!"

A vivacious English woman, the wife of a very well known officer bearing a famous name, today returned over the border into Holland after an adventurous day's tour behind the German lines.

"I made up my mind to see for myself what was going on," she said, "so I disguised myself as a Flemish peasant woman, with the assistance of the national costume—earrings, headdress and everything complete, down to the very shoes—stained my face brown with a concoction of strong coffee, borrowed a pair of spectacles and a market basket and set off across country on foot.

"On my way out of town I met a German soldier with his arm and hand dreadfully shattered. His bandages had slipped, and he was trying vainly to replace them. I helped him redress his nasty wounds and rebanded them with a pocket bandage I happened to have with me. The soldier fumbled in his pocket and at last produced a crumpled five franc note, which he offered me. I refused it.

"Why do you refuse good money for a good deed, madame?" he said.

"Because I am an English woman," I replied, "and English women do not take payment for good deeds, however small or great they may be."

"I cannot believe you are English," he said, "but you are an angel, and angels have no nationality. May I kiss your hand?"

"I held out my hand. He bent low and kissed it. There were tears in his eyes, and I rather wish now I had accepted the five franc note to keep as a souvenir of Prussian gratitude."

Thought Shells Were Fireworks.

The London Morning Post prints an extract from a letter of a cavalry officer giving an account of how the Indian troops behaved in their first encounter with shell fire. Although a cavalry officer, the writer was serving in the trenches. In his letter, dated Oct. 24 and written from Belgium, he says:

"Night before last we were told that the regiment was going to be relieved by the Indians. I was delighted till I heard that my troops were to stay out to give them moral support, as it was their first go—a compliment, I suppose, although I didn't think so at the time. It was the most weird sight I've ever seen.

"There were six farms and a windmill blazing, all set alight by shell fire, when these fellows, with their turbans and with flashing eyes and teeth, came up out of the darkness. The undefeated dragons, of course, became firm friends with them at once.

"Well, these natives had hardly got into the trenches on either side of me when the Germans opened fire. It was the worst half hour I've ever spent. As, of course, I couldn't make them understand and as they had never seen shells before, I didn't know what they would do. They behaved splendidly, and I think they thought the shells were fireworks let off for their benefit.

"The officer in charge of them told me that morning that he was most frightfully anxious as to how they'd do, but they shouted with glee when they saw a German and let him know what good shots they are."

"It Is Lovely Here!"

The Earl of Kingston, who is an officer of the Irish guards, in a letter to his wife at Kildonin Castle, County Roscommon, from France says:

"We had a bad night last night in the trenches, as we are only 800 yards from the Germans, and both sides are as jumpy as fleas, loosing off at any moment, and the guns are keeping up a terrific fire on us, but doing little damage. We had two killed and two wounded yesterday.

"They have a large gun here that was meant for the siege of Paris. It throws a shell thirty-two inches long and makes a hole big enough to bury eighteen men in. This battle has been on for ten days, and we hope for the best.

"We have a farm here that has been taken and retaken, but we have it again at present. It is lovely at night, with hundreds of shells bursting all around, and if it were not for the death they bring they might be fireworks on a large scale.

"I have lost my servant and all my kit. Please send me out some cigarettes tobacco and matches."

They Took His Shoe.

One of the British flying corps, Lieutenant Rainey, crossed the channel from France in a much damaged machine, thus completing in a fitting manner a series of thrilling adventures which have befallen him since he left England soil.

Lieutenant Rainey had been engaged for three weeks in reconnoitering at the front.

He had two machines disabled by rifle and shell fire, while a third caught fire in midair. On each of these occasions he just escaped death.

Once when he came down he was so exhausted that he lay with his head on his aeroplane and fell fast asleep. On waking he was astonished to find that the puttee, boot and sock of one leg had been removed by some one who, as the lieutenant himself suggested, took the opportunity of his slumber to get them as mementoes.

HANDSHAKING IS DIPLOMACY ASSET

Art is Being Fully Developed Since State Department has Silenced Ambassadors.

VARIOUS KINDS OF "SHAKES"

French have Soft, Warm Handshake, British Bumpety-Bus Kind and Italians Give Western Style.

(By B. K. Standish for United Press)

Washington, November 11—Handshaking, as an asset to diplomacy, is just being developed to the fullest in Washington today. Now that the state department has successfully silenced the ambassadors about all they can do is smile, shake their heads and hands.

An interview with an ambassador now-a-days goes about like this: You walk in the embassy. The doorman escorts you to the ambassador's office. After some waiting you enter. "How do you do, Mr. Ambassador," you say.

Up jumps His Excellency from his seat. He rushed toward you. "Why, how do you do Mr. Standish," he says at the same time grasping your hand. You remain silent. He shakes, shakes again and again, smiles and offers you a seat. You question him. He shakes his head. "First I heard of it," he says, or, "How interesting." You press further questions. His head bobs again and up he jumps. Out goes his hand you shake again and before you know what's happened you're on your way to the door and the ambassador is saying: "I'm so glad to have seen you, Mr. Standish, won't you come again." Just as you begin to assure him that you will and as your lift your head after bowing low you get a glimpse of his coat tail and a closing door. And you have interviewed an ambassador.

But, of course, representing different nations they must have different handshakes because none of them can say anything. They are official guests of Uncle Sam when that man says: "Please don't talk about the war,"—being good guests they don't—any more. Some of them have talked too much already.

There is the Italian, good old western style handshake; then there's the British bumpety-bus kind or the French one calibre low bow style and even the weight, soft warm handshake of the Portuguese. But they are all as different as their languages.

Sir Cecil Spring-Rice, being a good Britain, has the quick jerkity-jerk tripple action handshake. M. Jules Jusserand, the French Ambassador, begins by bowing low and ends by shaking your hand about once and a half. You think it's going to be two shakes but some time after the second one begins he lets go of your hand. Unless you have fortified yourself with a question so you can take your mind off of greetings immediately you're diplomatically "in a hole."

Count von Bernstorff, the German Ambassador, begins his handshake by looking straight at you with eyes as powerful as the Kaiser's. If his eyes have accomplished their Zepelin mission you are properly subdued, you feel the crushing grip of his hand and then if you still have enough "gumption" left to remember the question you wanted to ask him, you'll probably—probably—get an interview.

For some twelve years Viscount Alta, the Portuguese minister has been in Washington. Most of that time few people in America have ever bothered themselves about that little Republic, consequently the minister has not had to worry about handshaking. So the result is natural. When you grasp his hand you feel something soft and big and round and heavy and lifeless.

Among the thousand inquiries about American refugees in the war zone and the responses of the consular agents are many bits of wit and humor, one of the best in the opinion of W. B. Carr, director of the consular service, being a reply by a consul in France.

Inquiry had been made by friends of a man and his wife who were in France and diligent efforts were made to locate at Vichy, the French resort famous for its mineral waters.

"Smiths bottled up in Vichy", was the cablegram sent by a consul to the Department of State. Later it developed that the couple were actually stranded there by reason of the military operations.

CONTINUE EFFORTS TO CHECK DISEASE

State Veterinarian and Staff Keep Close Watch for New Cases of Foot and Mouth Disease.

ASSISTANTS ARE APPOINTED

Governor Ralston Calls on County Councils and Commissioners to Aid in Prevention Work.

Every precaution is being taken by the state veterinarian to prevent the further spread of the deadly foot and mouth disease in Indiana. Assistant state veterinarians have been named for each county and they are urged to keep close watch on the situation and report the first appearance of the disease within their districts. Dr. H. Lett, of this city, has been named as assistant state veterinarian in this county.

As yet the disease has not appeared in Jackson county. So far as known no cattle have been shipped here from Chicago since the disease became so prevalent and local stock dealers do not believe there is danger of the disease reaching this vicinity.

Following a conference with Dr. A. F. Nelson, state veterinarian, Governor Ralston issued a statement calling for co-operation of all county and local officers with federal and state authorities to fight the foot and mouth disease, now apparent in herds of cattle in many counties in the state. Dr. Nelson told the Governor that unless extraordinary efforts were made immediately every herd of cattle in the state would be in danger of becoming infected. The Governor has told the veterinarian that he and his associates are to leave no stone unturned to stop the ravages of the disease.

The Governor's statement follows: "I hope the several county councils and boards of commissioners and all local health and peace officers of Indiana will join in all proper ways in an active and effective co-operation with the state and federal authorities in prompt and strenuous measures to exterminate this disease. I would suppose that these localities would be willing to share the expense of its prevention and eradication, and be willing to go to the limit of their authority in this emergency in establishing and maintaining measures to prevent its spread. I am not prepared to say just how far they are warranted in going along this line."

"I am also anxious that all owners of live stock, all dealers in and shippers of such stock and all the farmers and the citizens generally give prompt and cordial aid to all federal, state and local officers engaged in stamping out this scourge before it sweeps the entire state and country, and I especially request that any person knowing of any shipments of cattle, sheep or hogs into this state from the Chicago stockyards since September 15 shall at once furnish this information to the local health officers."

Efforts to trace all the herds of cattle shipped into Indiana from the Chicago stockyards after October 1, and before the various quarantines were in effect, are taking up much of the time of the state officers now. A large percentage of all Chicago cattle so far inspected, have been found infected, Dr. Nelson told the Governor.

Dr. W. F. King, of the state board of health, who has been in northern Indiana assisting in the work against the disease, has been told that local health officers should co-operate in every way possible to assist in the stamping out of the disease. All farm animals on infected farms are being killed in northern Indiana. The disease is being carried, in some instances, by human beings. Dr. Nelson told the Governor.

New Cases Discovered.

By United Press.
Washington, November 11.—Sixty-five new cases of foot and mouth disease among fancy breeding cattle at the National Dairy Show at Chicago have been discovered, the department of agriculture announced today.

VETERINARY HOSPITAL IS NEW INSTITUTION HERE

Modern and Fully Equipped Building Erected on Tipton Street by Dr. H. Lett.

The new veterinary hospital which was erected by Dr. H. Lett, on Tipton street has been completed and is one of the most up-to-date and complete institutions of its kind in Indiana. The building is constructed of cement blocks and was planned especially for the purpose for which it will be used. Four large closed stalls and six open stalls have been built so that quite a number of horses can be taken care of at one time.

Two offices have been provided, one for the use of callers and another which will be fitted up for the convenience of the proprietor. The building is well lighted throughout with electricity. The equipment consists of practically every device to be found in an institution of that kind and by means of which operations may be performed in the most satisfactory manner. There are only two or three institutions of this kind in the state.

Dr. Lett located at Seymour shortly after he completed his course at the veterinary school and has been very successful. He has performed many difficult operations that have been successful and has built up a large practice not only in Jackson but in adjoining counties. He was formerly located on Third street but has moved all his equipment to the new hospital building.

Funeral Services.

The funeral of Miss Elizabeth Nieman, who died Sunday at her home in Aurora, was held today. She was a sister of Mrs. Henry Holtman, of this city, and often visited here. Mrs. Holtman was called to Aurora about a week ago because of her sister's illness. Miss Nieman had been in failing health for more than a year.

HUNTING STORIES FLOATING ABOUT

Many of Those Who Went Out in Quest of the Craft Quail Bought Beef for Today's Dinner.

VARIOUS KINDS OF EXCUSES

Nimrod's Claim That Reports About Abundant Supply of Birds in Indiana is "Bosh."

Hunting stories of all kinds and colors—some of them happened in reality, others only in imagination—are being told by the nimrods who went afield Tuesday, the first day of the "open" quail season. Several of the hunters who are telling of the large number of quail they killed and of the scores of rabbits that fell before their fire are said to have ordered their regular amount of beef today so that their reports are discredited. Others brought in a number of rabbits but it was discovered that they purchased them from the farmer's son on whose place they were hunting. Of course, none of them bought quail for that is unlawful and then, anyway, there is nothing sportsmanlike about going hunting and buying birds.

Because of the large number of local hunters who went out in quest of quail Tuesday it would be impossible to remunerate them here but some of the results are available.

Thus far Harold Stewart and Carl Willey are contenders for first place. They killed twenty-two birds and fourteen rabbits.

Lynn Faulkner, Charles Kessler, J. S. Mills and Jack Williams, all of them expert marksmen, organized a party that invaded the thickets near Scipio. Reports concerning the result vary as widely as do the official statements from the war office at Paris, London and Berlin. Kessler claims that his machine was so heavily loaded with game when they started home that it was necessary to push it up a small hill, but from the best available source it is said that the party came in with one lone quail that was near sighted and sixteen rabbits. The blame of killing of bird is uniformly placed upon Kessler who does not deny it when the others are within hearing distance.

H. H. Carter and a party of friends brought in twenty birds and so many rabbits that they did not take time to count them. It is reported that the "friends" in this party were good marksmen although the druggist clings to the assertion that he added eight to the number.

Judge O. H. Montgomery and E. A. Remy were out on the first day and their story is one that is extremely sad. They acknowledged that they didn't see a bird but killed enough rabbits to justify the excursion to the fields. Judge Montgomery has been so busy with legal entanglements today that he has not had time to give an interview to a reporter but Remy insists that they would have done better but for Judge's dog which went to sleep several times during the day.

Of course, if any quail had been so foolish as to jump up within shooting distance their name would have been "Dennis."

Will Clark and a party brought in twelve and are ready to make affidavit before a notary that they killed every one of them.

J. H. Andrews killed twelve birds Tuesday but his report is not completed as he is still searching for them.

H. C. Rinne and Charles Abel went over into the hills of Jennings county and their friends report that they brought in fifteen rabbits and the space for the number of birds is left blank. Rinne's friends are claiming that before he left he asserted that the rabbits were so plentiful that the farmers were knocking them down with clubs and they are drawing their own conclusions why he should have limited the number of dead to fifteen. One suggestion is that he became confused concerning the quail law.

Price Matlock, an experienced hunter was out a few hours Tuesday and bagged twelve birds. He didn't have the time nor inclination to bother with rabbits.

From the best information obtainable today there is still plenty of game left for those who did not get to go out on the first day. Some of those who returned last night are free to admit that they think the statements from the office of the state game commissioners regarding the abundant supply of quail is all "bosh" and they say that after tramping over the hills from daylight to dark they did not find one.

MOTION FOR NEW TRIAL IN ZOLLMAN CASE DENIED

Jackson County Land-Owner Filed Damage Suit for $25,000 Against B. & O. S-W. Company.

Judge Wilson, of the Monroe circuit court, before whom the $25,000 damage case filed by George W. Zollman, of Medora, against the B. & O. Southwestern Railroad was tried, has overruled the plaintiff's motion for a new trial. The plaintiff is given thirty days in which to file a $500 appeal bond. When the case was tried last summer the jury returned a verdict favorable to the defendant company. It was originally filed in this county but was sent to Monroe county on a change of venue.

The suit was a result of the disastrous flood in March, 1912, when great damage was done by White River. The complaint alleged that the defendant company had not provided adequate outlets under certain bridges and culverts and that as a result the high water swept the land of the plaintiff, damaging the soil and drowning many cattle. It is understood that the attorneys for the plaintiff will file an appeal bond and take the case to a higher court.

FIRST LECTURE COURSE NUMBER ON NOVEMBER 24

Local Committee Presents American Male Quartet at the Majestic Theater.

The lyceum season in Seymour will be inaugurated on Tuesday evening, Nov. 24th, when the American Male Quartet will be here for a concert at the Majestic Theater.

The committee in charge of the course is busy this week delivering season tickets which were pledged last spring, and is meeting with good success. Season tickets, good for all five numbers, may be secured for $1.00. The single admission prices will be 35 cents. Children's season tickets will be sold for 75 cents, and the single admission price will be 25 cents. At the request of many ticket holders, and also to help cover the expense of taking the attraction to the Majestic, reserved seats may be had for an additional charge of 10 cents. While a certain section of the theatre will be reserved, there will be good seats for all who do not care to reserve them.

The American Quartet presents a program which appeals to everyone. Their voices blend in perfect harmony in their quartet numbers and their individual selections are especially good. Mr. Gilbert, reader and violin soloist, is possessed of unusual ability in both of these accomplishments, and never fails to delight his audience. Mr. Sawyer, pianist and tenor soloist, plays the piano with an apparent carelessness and ease, and yet with perfect technique and finish, and also possess a tenor voice of much quality. Mr. Fairchild, cellist and whistling soloist, gives some excellent solo numbers and the feature of the program is the cartoon and sketch work of Mr. Conrad, who draws some very beautiful and entertaining pictures, and does some color studies which mark him as a finished artist in this work.

The orchestral selections are also good, making a varied and well balanced program, and one which pleases.

The committee, although at a much heavier expense than last year, has kept the prices at the minimum scale of $1.00 for season tickets, and deserves the patronage of all who appreciate high grade, clean, and artistic musical numbers, and helpful and inspiring lectures.

RUMORS OF PEACE PROFFER

Kaiser Is Said to Be Weakening.

CZAR REJECTS OFFER

Interesting Story Is Being Circulated in Rome.

A SIMILAR OFFER IN FRANCE

Germany Reported to Be Alarmed at Russian Successes.

Rome, Nov. 11.—It is stated in well informed quarters that Germany, alarmed at the Russian successes, has made preliminary offers of peace to the Russian government, which, however, has rejected them. It had previously been reported that the kaiser had seen to it that unofficial offers of peace were made to France, which promptly rejected them.

Berlin, Nov. 11.—Our attacks near Ypres are progressing slowly. More than 500 prisoners have been taken and several machine guns captured. Further south our troops also are advancing, the strong counter attacks of the British having been repulsed. In the Argonne the fighting is progressing favorably, hostile attacks being easily repulsed. In Russian Poland our cavalry dispersed a Russian battalion, taking about 500 prisoners and eight machine guns.

Paris, Nov. 11.—The battle in the trenches is of so violent a character that unless one side gains a decided advantage before many hours have passed, the combatants will have to stop from exhaustion. Both the Germans and the allies are endeavoring to continue the offensive and the result is a conflict not only of the greatest importance, but of the greatest ferocity, of a war in which desperate engagements have made a new record.

The allies are making whatever gains are reported, but these are in the nature of strengthening success partially gained on previous days. The most encouraging feature of the reports from the front is that the Germans have been repulsed at every point, despite the huge number of new troops which have been brought up and the addition of more heavy artillery.

During the past twenty-four hours the allies had to sustain a tremendous assault at every point of the line, with the greatest efforts centering on Ypres. The German drive for the coast cities has been incessant and only by desperate fighting have the allies' troops been able to hold it thoroughly checked.

Hindered by Swamps.

The inundation of the regions on the left bank of the Yser, which drove the Germans back, is now proving a hindrance to the allies, who were prevented from advancing in force by the marshy ground. Only two or three small villages on this side of the Yser are now in German hands, and the Belgian troops are making supreme efforts to recapture these positions.

The fighting has been of the most variable character, first one side making an attempt and then the other. It is reported, however, that the allies have strengthened their hold on Ypres, after repulsing a severe attack, and have also taken more advantageous positions at Bixchoote and Armentiers.

The regions between Rheims and Berry-au-Bac, on the center, where there has been comparative quiet for several days, was again the scene of violent action, with the allies on the offensive. The war office reports that the gain at this position was notable.

Reports persist here from unofficial circles that a portion of the German army in Belgium is actually retreating to positions in the rear. Little credence is given to this contention, however, although it is known that work is proceeding rapidly on the fortified line back of the present one.

WITNESSES DISAPPEARED

State Was Compelled to Dismiss Case Against Muncie Doctor.

Muncie, Ind., Nov. 11.—The two charges against Dr. O. L. Reasoner of this city, who is alleged to have sold heroin tablets to two Alexandria young men addicted to the drug habit, were dismissed in circuit court on motion of prosecuting Attorney Mann, who said that the young men making the charge against Dr. Reasoner several months ago, cannot now be found. All other material witnesses in the case also have disappeared, according to Mr. Mann.

REPORTS OF PROGRESS IN EASTERN CAMPAIGN

Russian Forces Are Nearing Cracow.

Athens, Nov. 11.—British ships have bombarded Zumbulak.

London, Nov. 11.—An official report from Petrograd says that the Russian forces in Poland have reached Miechow, twenty-five miles from Cracow, and that in Galicia the Russians are crossing the Wisloka river and now occupy Rzesow, Dynow and Lisko. In East Prussia the German right wing, which has been offering stubborn resistance in the neighborhood of Lyck, has been thrown back toward Mazur lake. East of Neidenburg Russian cavalry defeated German detachments which were guarding railways.

Reports from Berlin say that the situation in the west is satisfactory to the kaiser's arms and that the Germans have gained some advantages in the region of Ypres and Arras. The Turkish campaign is reported to be progressing satisfactorily, though operations are hampered by the bad weather. Reports from Sofia are to the effect that the majority of the inhabitants of Odessa have fled to the interior of the country. A battle is reported in western Serbia in which a Serbian force of 120,000 was defeated by the Austrians and many prisoners and supplies captured. The Shek-Ul-Islam, the report says, has announced that all Moslems fighting on the side of the allies will be considered as murderers and not as warriors.

THE END OF THE CRUISER EMDEN

"The Scourge of the Pacific" Out of Commission.

DRIVEN ASHORE IN FLAMES

In an Engagement With the Cruiser Sydney of the Australian Navy, the German Warship Which Has Been So Destructive to British Shipping Was Driven Ashore on an Island in the Indian Ocean.

Lima, Peru, Nov. 11.—Heavy cannonading again has been heard of Coronel, Chile, where the recent battle between the German and British squadrons took place.

London, Nov. 11.—The admiralty announces that the career of the German cruiser Emden has been brought to an end. The "scourge of the Pacific," as she has been called, was driven ashore in flames by the Australian cruiser Sydney on an island of the Cocos or Keeling group, southwest of Java, in the Indian ocean. Three men were killed and fifteen wounded on the Sydney, while the losses on the Emden are reported to be heavy, although her captain, Karl von Muller, has probably been saved.

The Emden is credited with the capture or destruction of twenty-two vessels since the war began.

A further announcement told how the German light cruiser Koenigsberg had been cornered by the Chatham, a sister ship of the Sydney, in the Ruffi river, opposite Mafia island, German East Africa, and that colliers had been sunk in the only channel of the river so she cannot possibly escape and can be destroyed or captured at leisure.

The first lord of the admiralty, Winston Spencer Churchill, has sent the following message to the Sydney and to the navy board of the Australian commonwealth:

"Warmest congratulations on the brilliant entry of the Australian navy into the war and the signal service rendered to the allied cause and to peaceful commerce by the destruction of the Emden."

The Koenigsberg Bottled Up.

The Koenigsberg was discovered by H. M. S. ship Chatham, hiding in shoal water up the Ruffi river in German East Africa. Owing to a greater draft the Chatham could not reach the Koenigsberg, which probably is aground except at high water. Part of the crew of the Koenigsberg has been landed and is entrenched on the banks of the river. Both these intrenchments and the Koenigsberg herself have been bombarded by the Chatham, but owing to the dense palm groves amid which the ship lies, it is impossible to estimate the damage done. Pending operations for her capture or destruction, effective steps have been taken to block the Koenigsberg by sinking colliers in the only navigable channel in the river, and she is now imprisoned and unable to do further harm. The vessels which have been searching for her are thus released for other services.

The news that the Emden had been put out of action caused the liveliest satisfaction throughout England. The depredations of the German cruiser have cost England millions in money, and commercial circles can breathe a sigh of relief at her destruction.

An unwitting tribute to the fear the Emden has inspired is found in the announcement, following immediately the admiralty statements that the marine insurance for the ocean had been cut in half.

NO FEARS FOR U. S. CRUISER

Navy Department Not Alarmed at the North Carolina's Silence.

New York, Nov. 11.—There is a persistent rumor in New York that the United States armored cruiser North Carolina had been blown up by a Turkish mine at Beirut, Asiatic Turkey.

Washington, Nov. 11.—The navy department has not heard from the armored cruiser North Carolina, supposed to be at Beirut, Turkey, since Nov. 2, and officials are beginning to believe that communication with Beirut must be wholly interrupted. There are not, however, any fears for the safety of the North Carolina, despite rumors, apparently originating in this country, that she has met with disaster.

Murder Trial at Evansville.

Evansville, Ind., Nov. 11.—William Markley, charged with the murder of Hermann Kimmann, is on trial in the circuit court here. It is said Kimmann was stabbed to death by Markley after he had attempted to run away with Markley's wife.

Execution of a German Spy.

London, Nov. 11.—Carl Hans Lody, who, under the name of Charles A. Inglis, recently was tried by court martial for espionage, has been shot in the tower of London. This is the first execution of a spy in England since the year 1700.

Three new superdreadnoughts of the most powerful type of battleship in the French navy have been launched during the last month in France.

LABOR FEDERATION NOW IN CONVENTION

Movement for Shorter Work Day Inaugurated.

Philadelphia, Nov. 11.—A formal effort to start an agitation for a six-hour working day in all organized trades was launched at the first business session of the American Federation of Labor convention here.

The United Brotherhood of Carpenters wish the convention to exert its weight to establish the six-hour day in all trades upon the ground that the eight-hour day is excessive. Like about thirty-five other resolutions offered by delegates, that of the carpenters was referred to the resolutions committee.

Among other resolutions presented but not acted on, was one calling upon states and municipalities to revoke the licenses of detective agencies which supply strike-breakers to mine operators and other employers of labor. What was regarded as one of the most important resolutions offered and one which is likely to receive unanimous support in a general vote, calls for the organization of an independent labor party in all states and municipalities, to be financed and generally supported at elections by the general labor unions.

IS NOT REGULARLY LISTED

Secret Wireless Plant Discovered in Lower California.

Washington, Nov. 11.—The navy department has received a report that a wireless station, not regularly listed among the stations of the world, had been found in Lower California, about fifty miles from the Pacific coast. The inference is that the station was being used to aid bellicent warships operating in the Pacific.

Inasmuch as the British and Japanese vessels in those waters have the use of the station at the Canadian naval base, Esquimaux, it is thought more probable that the station in lower California was designed to aid the German ships.

It is believed the Mexican government will find a way to suppress it when its attention is called to it.

German Prestige Destroyed.

Peking, Nov. 11.—The capitulation of Tsingtao and its unconditional surrender to the Japanese amazes the Chinese, who expected to see the scenes at Port Arthur re-enacted. The garrison's failure to give a serious infantry battle or to cause a severe loss to the attacking forces has destroyed whatever prestige the Germans had hoped to gain.

CARRANZA GIVES UP THE BATTLE

"First Chief" Finally Bows to Convention's Order.

HIS FAMILY CROSSES BORDER

Seeking Refuge From Threatened Battle Which Promises to Be the Outcome of One of the Minor Disputes Attending the Readjustment of Mexican Politics, Carranza's Household Goes to Eagle Pass.

Mexico City, Nov. 11.—Augustin Rodriguez, the aged envoy to the mediation conference at Niagara Falls, last summer, has been released from prison after several days' detention.

El Paso, Nov. 11.—Colonel Sebastian Carranza, nephew of General Carranza, deposed Constitutionalist chief, has moved 1,700 Constitutionalist troops from the garrison at Piedras Negras, opposite Eagle Pass, to attack Saltillo, capital of the state of Coahuila. Saltillo is held by General Luis Gutierrez, whose brother, General Eulalio Gutierrez, has been sworn in as provisional president of Mexico. Colonel Carranza had previously warned General Gutierrez he would attack Saltillo unless Gutierrez swore allegiance to General Carranza. This presumably Gutierrez refused to do.

Saltillo, center of a rich agricultural district, is 225 miles south of Piedras Negras. The towns are connected by the National Railways of Mexico. General Carranza's family has been at Piedras Negras under the protection of the first chief's nephew, but is reported now to have crossed the border into the United States at Eagle Pass. General Villa is expected to dispatch a strong force of troops from Torreon to Saltillo to reinforce Gutierrez. Saltillo is 100 miles east of Torreon. The cities are connected by railroad.

Carranza Decides to Yield.

Following the announcement by Constitutionalist that Carranza had decided to yield to the wishes of the Aguas Calientes convention, the troop movement is reported as slackening, and by Villa's supporters his army concentration is looked upon with suspicion.

A telegram from Aguas Calientes said the commission headed by General Obregon had terminated the convention that General Carranza was disposed to turn over the government as soon as a provisional president and his cabinet had assumed control of the civil government of the nation. This further nullified the rumors regarding the attitude of Carranza, who previously had declared that he would not accept the conventional action in disposing him.

Aguas Calientes' advances from Carranza forces said that Carranza had formed the commission that while he was not bound in any way to recognize the validity of the conventional action, or desired to give that formal recognition, that he was prepared to recognize the authority of the convention, the executive power of the nation and the chief command of the Constitutionalist troops to any man named by the convention to govern for a definite period, though he would not actually assume a national office over the nation or the people, and would continue to command the troops and reserve the right of the Republic as a free man to do as he pleased.

HOPING FOR COLD WEATHER

A Freeze Is Expected to Check Cattle Epidemic.

Washington, Nov. 11.—With thirteen states under federal quarantine and cattle shipments barred from Canada, officials of the department of agriculture working with local authorities, are pressing their fight to halt the spread of the foot-and-mouth disease among live stock. "Cold weather in the infected states," it was believed, would tend to check the epidemic.

Beat the Executioner to It.

Trenton, N. J., Nov. 11.—Polson caused the death of Angelo Circiello, a wife murderer of Newark, a few hours before the time fixed for his execution at the state prison last night. The county physician who conducted an autopsy announced that death was due to phosphorous poisoning resulting from a dose of match heads soaked in water, with which Circiello regaled himself.

Acquitted of Killing Husband.

New Albany, Ind., Nov. 11.—Mrs. Sarah E. Heyn, charged with shooting and killing her husband, Henry Heyn, at their home near Henryville, Clark county, Jan. 23, 1914, on trial in the Floyd circuit court in this city, the case having been venued from the Clark circuit court, was acquitted. She asserted she acted in self-defense.

Put a Ban on Hunting.

Logansport, Ind., Nov. 11.—The Cass county commissioners have prohibited the issuance of hunting licenses pending the fight against hoof and mouth disease. All dogs have been ordered tied up, and there will be no killing of quails and rabbits till the quarantine is raised.

Dixmude, Belgium, has been bombed by the Germans.

must be the watchword when the housewife buys baking powder.

Alum is well known to be a powerful astringent, and should never be used in food.

Prof. Geo. F. Barker, M. D., of the University of Pennsylvania, says: "I consider the use of alum baking powder highly injurious to health."

Food economy now, more than ever, demands the purchase and use of those food articles of known high quality and absolute purity and healthfulness.
